Cut out rectangles (you should have five when you are finished). Cut out airplane pulling rectangle as one piece.

After you complete the lesson on page 50 of your FIAR manual, use this book to record examples of onomatopoeia. If desired, you can use the extra pieces to record examples that your student has thought of (ways an airplane or car can sound).

Stack rectangles together on top of the one being pulled by a plane. Staple on the left side making a booklet that can be flipped through.
