Abraham Lincoln's Life Tab Book

Abraham and Mary Ann Todd were married even though her family didn't want them to get married.

They had four sons: Robert, Edward, William and Thomas (Tad). Edward died when he was 4 years old, William died when he was 11 years old, and Tad died when he was 18 years old. Robert is the only son who was married.

Presidency

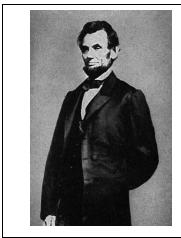

Assembly Directions:

Cut the six strips along the solid outer lines. If there is a rectangle piece in the right corner of the strip, cut it off as indicated (remove this area). Stack your strips in order:

- 1. Childhood
- 2. Jobs
- 3. Politics
- 4. Family
- 5. Presidency

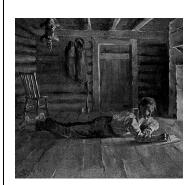

Add the cover to the top and staple at the left side of the front page where the marks are indicated.

Cut and paste the appropriate information on each piece (or write your own).

After Abraham was elected president of the United States in 1860, some states in the south formed the Confederate States of America because they didn't want a president that was against slavery. This was the start of the Civil War. Five days after the Civil War was over in 1865, Abraham was shot and later died before finishing his term in office.

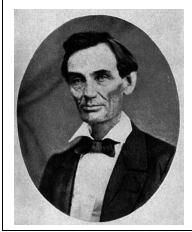

Abraham Lincoln's Life Tab Book

Abraham Lincoln was very poor growing up. He lived in log cabins in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois. Abraham's mother died when he was 9 years old, and Sarah Bush Johnston became his stepmother. Although Abraham had very little formal schooling, he loved to read.

At age 19, Abraham was hired to deliver cargo by boat in New Orleans. While he was there, he saw slaves chained together being sold. He later left his father's farm to open a store in New Salem, Illinois. He studied law in the evenings.

Abraham served three terms with the Illinois general assembly. When the assembly was not in session, he practiced law. After serving one term in the United States House of Representatives, he left office because he wanted to speak out about slavery.

In 1789, George Washington was sworn in as the first president of the United States.

Presidency

He knew that whatever he did would be an example for the future presidents. After serving two terms, he returned to Mount Vernon where he later died.

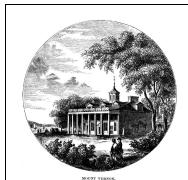

Assembly Directions:

Cut the six strips along the solid outer lines. If there is a rectangle piece in the right corner of the strip, cut it off as indicated (remove this area). Stack your strips in order:

Cut and paste the appropriate information on each piece (or write your own).

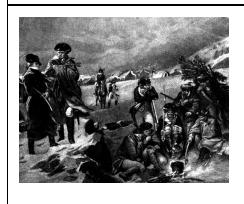

George grew up at Mount Vernon, Virginia.

George's father died when George was 11 years old. He was raised by his half-brother, Lawrence.

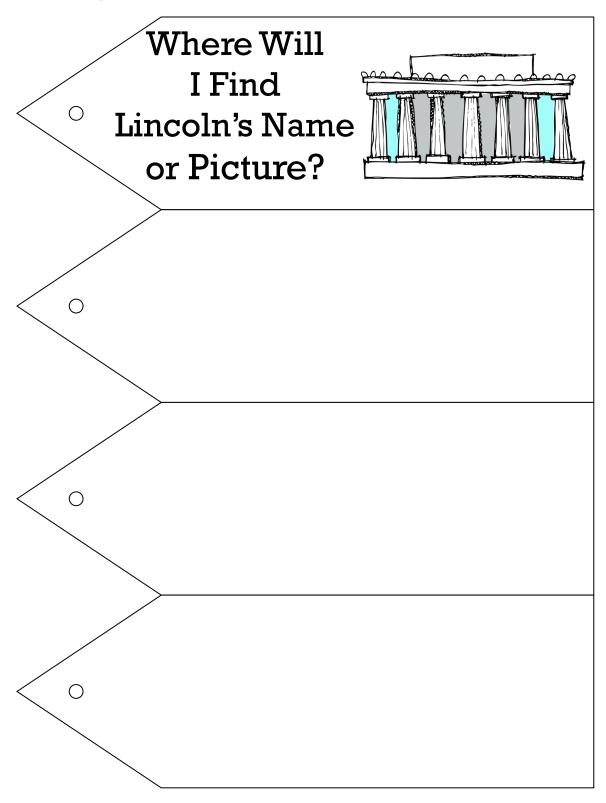

George surveyed thousands of acres of land when he was 16 years old. After the death of his brother, he became a Virginia volunteer soldier.

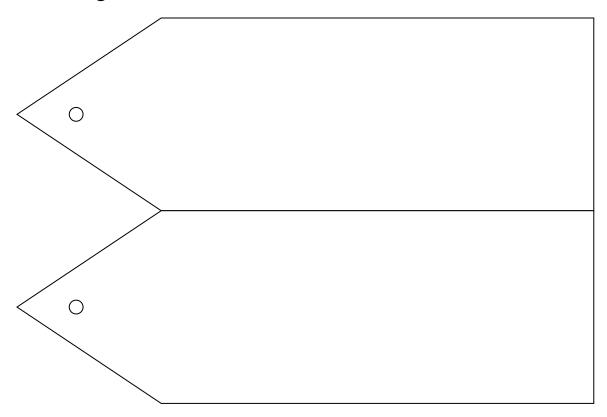

He became a commander of Virginia's soldiers during the French and Indian War. As a general, George lead the American soldiers during the Revolutionary War. He lost many troops during the battle at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.
